All over the world, governments are using nudges as regulatory tools. Is this ethical? Much of the answer depends on whether nudges promote or instead undermine welfare, autonomy, and dignity. Many nudges, and those that deserve support, promote some or all of these ideals, and undermine none of them. If welfare is our guide, much nudging is actually required on ethical grounds, even if it comes from government. If autonomy is our guide, much nudging is also required on ethical grounds, in part because some nudges actually promote autonomy, in part because some nudges enable people to devote their limited time and attention to their most important concerns. Finally, nudges should not, and need not, compromise individual dignity, which many nudges actually promote. There is, however, a genuine risk that some nudges might count as manipulations, an emphasis on welfare, autonomy, and dignity helps to show how to avoid that risk. Objectives of Behavioral Analysis Modeling

- To relate an adversary’s behavior to social and cultural attributes
- To relate an adversary’s organizational structure to behavior, when both structure and behavior are conditioned by cultural and social attributes (My note: Conditioned by social attributes - take into account that they could take into account your dependence on tools such as Twitter, Facebook, Googling and instant messaging to communicate.)
- To provide tools that will support Course of Action development and assessment that are effective.
- To identify through the models the points of influence that have the potential to modify the behavior of individuals and organizations (My note: notice how ‘weakly’ they’ve managed to camouflage the word ‘behavior modification’)
- To facilitate the development of COAs that include coordinated kinetic and non-kinetic actions
- To explore, through a computational modeling framework, the nexus between data and models for individual adversaries (micro level) and data and models for organizations of adversaries (macro level) (My note: Agape, Mental Gear field 4 - a videogame of all things - actually talks about this.)

Military’s ‘sock puppet’ software creates fake online identities to spread pro-American propaganda

- A California corporation is working with the US Central Command (CENTCOM) in spreading propaganda overseas. They provide “online persona management service” that allows active duty military to set up an estimated 10 different false identities that are used worldwide. [Ntrepid, Richard Helms, 30 year CIA veteran – linked to Billy Mellon Hitchcock]
- Each fake persona comes complete with a background history and safeties to prevent “sophisticated adversaries” from discovering the lie.
- CENTCOM spokesman Commander Bill Speaks said: “The technology supports classified blogging activities on foreign-language websites to enable CENTCOM to counter violent extremist and enemy propaganda outside the US. None of the interventions would be in English, as it would be unlawful to address US audiences with such technology”
- Sophisticated software allows military to engage in online conversations with coordinated answers, blog comments and instant messaging remarks that are solely meant to spread pro-American propaganda.
- US Army whistleblower, Lieutenant Col. Daniel Davis believes there is a definitive aspiration within the US government “to enable Public Affairs officers to influence American public opinion when they deem it necessary to protect a key friendly center of gravity, to wit US national will.”

$202 million spent by the Department of Defense on misinformation operations in Iraq and Afghanistan in 2011.

The Centcom contract stipulates that each fake online persona must have a convincing background, history and supporting details, and that up to 50 US-based controllers should be able to operate false identities from their workstations "without fear of being discovered by sophisticated adversaries".

The software could allow US service personnel, working around the clock in one location, to respond to emerging online conversations with any number of coordinated messages, blogposts, chatroom posts and other interventions. Details of the contract suggest this location would be MacDill air force base near Tampa, Florida, home of US Special Operations Command.

Centcom’s contract requires for each controller the provision of one "virtual private server" located in the United States and others appearing to be outside the US to give the impression the fake personas are real people located in different parts of the world.

Information/Operations/Recommendation

Subject: US Chamber Watch Information/Operations/Recommendation

Date: November 29, 2010

Summary

US Chamber Watch is one of the most active members of the opposition to the US Chamber of Commerce (c.c.). Unlike some groups, members of this organization are politically connected and well established, making US Chamber Watch vulnerable to information operations that could embarrass the organization and those associated with it.

Details

US Chamber Watch is well connected politically, evidenced by the established relationship between GW and Andy Barr, and is associated with many powerful DC operations behind the scenes. The organization typically does not use theatrical performances or overt gestures. The people in this case are less important than the organization. Therefore we need to discredit the organization through the following:

1. Paint US Chamber Watch as an operative of GW and the unions, while at the same time highlighting the organization of the unions against the chamber. We should show also the flow of members from unions to GW as well as the absence of GW and US Chamber Watch.
2. Craft a message to combat the negative propaganda of US Chamber Watch. For example, target how the unions are being an obstacle to progress by advocating for unreasonable individual benefits, while the Chamber continues to focus on job creation through innovation in order to showcase how the US economy prospers in the global economy. Packaged in the right medium, such an operation can prove to be powerful.
3. Create a false document, perhaps highlighting proposed financial information, and mentor to say if US Chamber Watch operates against the public. Also, create a fake insider persons and generate communications with GW. Afterward, release the actual documents at a specified time and replace the activity as a 'CIA' commissioned operation. Both instances will prove that US Chamber Watch intends to be linked with information and not the truth.
4. Connect US Chamber Watch’s radical tactics to Social Revolution, explaining that both entities are loosely operating together. Depending on the level of connection established, such an approach may need to be spotlighted as more of a conspiracy rather than a separate, social persons.
5. If needed, create two fake insider persons, using one as leverage to discredit the other while confirming the legitimacy of the second. Such work is complicated, but a well-thought-out approach will give way to a variety of strategies that can sufficiently add the formation of key leaders US Chamber Watch will likely ask.
6. Create a humans piece about the leaders of GW.

“This paper examines how such methods can be leveraged to manipulate a social network. This work specifically aims to investigate how peer pressure from social leaders affects consensus beliefs (e.g., opinions, emotional states, purchasing decisions, political affiliation, etc.) within a social network, and how an interaction algorithm can be developed such that the group social behavior can be driven to a desired end (i.e., a convex hull spanned by the leaders’ states).”

Military Meme Magic

- Example memes: words, ideas, symbols, icons, logics, tunes, poems, catch-phrases, fashion, technological processes (e.g., making arrownheads or gumbos), tabbies, religion, graffiti, images, novels, movies, narratives, culture (functional or dysfunctional): national, tribal, or organizational
- Memes can be described by their external phenomena (e-memes) and internal phenomena (i-memes)
- i-memes are manifested by their effects on human behavior and culture
- e-memes are manifested by their effects on an individual’s neuronal behavior and brain
- E-memes and i-memes are not two types of memes, but rather two effects or manifestations of memes
- Cultural replicators propagated through imitation, undergoing a process of selection, and standing to be selected not because they benefit their human carriers, but because they benefit themselves
- A symbolic representation of any state of affairs, either internal and implemented in the mind or external implemented in an external (non-enumerable) objects such as artifacts, products, behaviors
- Replicating conceptual units – the largest reliably replicating unit within our text corpus
- A cognitive information structure able to replicate using human hosts and to triggering their behavior to promote replication

Epidemiology of Ideas (DSO, 2009)
- To predict changing culture and examine the creation, propagation, and impact of ideas

Military Memetics (DSO, 2006-2009)
- To determine whether memes can be established as a science with the ability to explain and predict phenomena; to define memes and memetic metrics; and to use tools and techniques (e.g., IMP and social network simulations) to examine Info-IP

Social Media in Strategic Communications (SMISC) (DSO, 2011-in progress)
- To develop automatic tools and techniques for detecting, identifying, evaluating, and countering adversarial memes

Narrative Networks (NN) (DSO, 2011-in progress)
- To perform quantitative analysis of narratives, understanding their effects on human psychology and neurobiology, and determine their influence on individuals and culture

- The angst of the frustrated stems from a consciousness of an irreconcilable conflict between the self and the world, that self is manifested in a propensity for united action and self-sacrifice
- The capacities for united action and self-sacrifice almost always go together, a group that is particularly enervating of death is usually close-knit and thoroughly unified
- To drive a person for self-sacrifice, he must be equipped for the individual identity, mill drasticaly by complete assimilation of the individual in the collective body
- The individual fully assimilated into the collective never feels alone; to be cast out from the group is the equivalent of being cut off from life
- The collectivized individual is in a primitive state of being, equivalent to that of primitive tribes – mass movements strive to approximate this primitive perfection

Deep Target Knowledge

Burning Man: a Target Rich Environment

(1) Deep Target Knowledge
FROM: [Redacted] Technical Leader, Russia Product Line
Run Date: 08/22/2003

(1/FOOU) Now that you know where your target is and you have an idea of how it operates and who its friends are, its time to really learn who it is and what makes it tick. Analysts often overlook the importance of understanding the psychology and culture of their target. They may erroneously allow themselves to categorize certain scenarios or actions as "unthinkable".

(C/SI) One way of avoiding such failures of imagination is to operate, to the maximum extent possible, inside our target's Conceptual Space. This is not to be confused with the target's Information Space, which has come to mean the target's systems of communicating and storing information and their content. The Information Space is tied to the target's technology and is, in fact, what we as SIGINT analysts target and collect against.

(C/SI) The target's Conceptual Space on the other hand is the entirety of his frame of reference - its culture (social, religious, ethnic, national, organizational) and, at the level of the individual, its personality. To try to operate within the target's Conceptual Space is to try to live inside its head, to understand enough about it and its milieu that we have a good sense of what it means, what it is capable of doing, and how it should react. This has little, if anything, to do with technology or what we collect and everything to do with how we assess what we have collected and the context into which we put it for our readers.

Effects-Based Operations

This section examines three technologies developed over the past decade; the first two developed for reasons rather different than an effects-based approach to military operations. The first is the influence network approach that evolved out of the need to assess socio-political influence strategies. It turns out that the concepts used to solve that problem apply directly to the problem of effects based operations. The second development is the use of architecture techniques including the use of executable models to relate stimuli to reactions in the decision making/command and control system of an adversary. The third is the merging of these two techniques into causal analysis tools for course of action (COA) development and evaluation.

In 1994, DARPA funded a project for the development of a modeling tool for the assessment of socio-political influences on potential adversaries. The objective was to extract empirical expertise and knowledge about adversaries and place it in an analytical framework. Within this framework, influence strategies and their operational implementation could be examined. This tool, SIAM, was developed at SAIC by a team led by Julie Rosen and Wayne Smith [11].

Background:
Course of Action Selection for EBO

- After the first Gulf war, the Intelligence community needed modeling tools and techniques to assess socio-political influence strategies
  - How to influence leaders such as Saddam Hussein, Milosevic, and others
- In 1994 SAIC, supported by GMU, developed SIAM (Situational Influence Analysis Model) for DARPA & CIA; this has been used extensively by the Intelligence community as well as others
- SIAM is a static model that enables the representation of influences (causes) on a person’s or organization’s behavior. By stimulating selected influences, one tries to modify that entity’s behavior
  - Determine “how to get the biggest bang for the influence buck”
- Influence Nets (SIAM is an implementation) allow analysts to extract empirical expertise and knowledge about a situation and place it in an analytical framework
Influence Net

- The Influence Nets are appropriate for the following situations:
  1) for modeling situations in which it is difficult to fully specify all conditional probability values
  2) and/or the estimates of conditional probabilities are subjective, and
  3) estimates for the conditional probabilities cannot be obtained from empirical data, e.g., when modeling potential human reactions and beliefs

- Analysts preparing analysis of situations based on influence of humans have a legitimate concern that “showing the numbers” can convey a level of precision that is not justified

Sketch to Plan will be multi-modal (both sketching and speech) and interactive. The computer will watch the sketch being drawn and listen for key words that indicate sequence, time, intent, etc. as the commander is creating the sketch. Sketch to Plan must be able to induce both a plan and the commander’s intent from the sketch and speech. Unlike other approaches that are optimized around machine interpretations (i.e., constraining the sketching method to drag-and-drop modalities, forcing the human to learn the computer’s language to some extent), Sketch to Plan is optimized around the user free-hand sketching options over a map. It should be able to interpret free-hand drawing and not require the commander to think and draw in perfect, formal MIL STD specified way. Over time Sketch to Plan should learn the commander’s sketching language as a variant, or approximation, of MIL STD 2525b. In addition, the Sketch to Plan component must be imbued with enough domain knowledge that it knows what it doesn’t know and can ask the user a small set of clarifying questions until it understands the sketch and can use it to initialize a combat model.

Sentient World Simulation

Data Gathering, Characterization, and Querying. Data and events are extracted from real world via the Web and live sensor data. The large volume of available data is categorized to capture trends and pinpoint interesting outliers. Users can also provide new data. All new information goes through a believability filter/tagging.

A key enabling technology of SWS is the intelligent gather, search, and knowledge discovery mechanisms for extracting relevant data from the real world and incorporating it in the synthetic world. As is illustrated in Figure 4, publicly available open source data is gathered from the large volume of the internet and weblogs (blogs and news feeds). Data characterization identifies trends and outliers in the gathered data. Additionally, data from live sensors are searched and characterized, enabling SWS to leverage image data. The intent is to collect as much information as possible from available sources, then have intelligent agents process the data to pull out the useful information and filter it to determine what SWS characterizes as truth and assign it a believability metric. Other intelligent agents will act on the data from the point of view of the entity they represent, meaning they will react only to the information they receive and their belief that the information is true or not. The key is that all information is processed by SWS and assigned an absolute believability metric, but that individual elements, people, crowds, countries, act on the raw data or data processed through the simulated tools and systems available to them – just like the real world. Before including new data into the synthetic world, unreliable data is filtered out or tagged with believability metrics.

By basing the designing of the synthetic environment on a fractal representation, SWS avoids the most common pitfalls faced by simulation environments: designing and optimizing an infrastructure for a parochial purpose and thereby limiting its application to a small range of problems. The fractal approach provides a consistent representation of the environment’s building blocks to models with all granularities of access. The basic building blocks consist of individuals, organizations, institutions, information, and geographies. From these building blocks, communities are built, constructed into societies, nations, and ultimately providing a synthetic world. Coarse-grained models use a small sample of the population and localized fine-grained models use a full sample of the population in an area. The same individual who experiences events from a fine-grained model can be influenced by a coarse-grained model. This approach to enabling heterogeneous models to interact is a Society of Models approach, described below.

Advanced Question Answering for Intelligence

The New Thought Police - The NSA Wants to Know How You Think - Maybe Even What You Think - PBS, 2009

The National Security Agency (NSA) is developing a tool that George Orwell’s Thought Police might have found useful: an artificial intelligence system designed to gain insight into what people are thinking.

With the entire Internet and thousands of databases for a brain, the device will be able to respond almost instantaneously to complex questions posed by intelligence analysts. As more and more data is collected—through phone calls, credit card receipts, social networks like Facebook and MySpace, GPS tracks, cell phone geolocation, Internet searches, Amazon book purchases, even E-Z Pass toll records—it may one day be possible to know not just where people are and what they are doing, but what and how they think.

The system is so potentially intrusive that at least one researcher has quit, citing concerns over the dangers in placing such a powerful weapon in the hands of a top-secret agency with little accountability...

"The technology behaves like a robot, understanding and answering complex questions," said a former AQuaint researcher. "Think of 2001: A Space Odyssey and the most memorable character, HAL 9000, having a conversation with David. We are essentially building this system. We are building HAL."

Project UAREHERE: IARPA LARPer The New Psyops

Background and Scope
IARPA is soliciting responses to this RFI in order to assess the extent to which Alternate Reality Environments (AREs), such as Alternate Reality Games (ARGs), may provide capabilities that allow for high-quality, externally valid social, behavioral and psychological research in near-realworld contexts.

This RFI invites interested parties to respond with ideas, approaches, and evidence that can address one, some, or all of the following questions:

1. What, if any, social, behavioral, and/or psychological research has been conducted using AREs (to include ARGs)?
2. Is there evidence that ARE/ARG-based research provides greater external validity than other methods of social, behavioral, and/or psychological research?
3. What are the key elements to incorporate when designing or using AREs/ARGs for research purposes? What may be the biggest challenges for designing or using AREs/ARGs for research?
4. How might one design an ARE/ARG that combines periods of controlled data collection as well as periods of “free play” and interactions?
5. How might subject recruitment, screening, and informed consent be performed for an ARE/ARG, while limiting priming effects that may occur when explaining the purpose of a research study?
6. What protections can be put in place to maintain the privacy, safety, and anonymity of subjects? How have previous AREs/ARGs addressed these issues?

Responses should consider issues regarding the collection of data via personal identifiers that may be sensitive (e.g. user names, phone numbers, emails, IP addresses, etc.), other data that may potentially be sensitive, and data security and protections.

Tyler Durden Invented Burning Man

Perhaps you’ve never heard of the Cosplopy Society. Burning Man’s parent group.

Frankly the cliche, but for history’s sake, we’re going to have to talk about fight club.

_Fight Club_ is a book written in 1996 and then turned into a movie released 15 years ago. (This folklore will only be helpful if we can help you.) Author Chuck Palahniuk confirmed as several book release events last year the “Project Mayhem” group in fight club’s story is indeed the Cosplopy Society in real life. A gathering of people, without the non-violent John soapson or all the property destruction and violence (HGV, arson, violence, anyway).

But Larry Harvey invented Burning Man, you may be saying to yourself, why he and the honey bunch can’t bring the class to a “truce” trip? The Cosplopy Society had already planned to take the Black Rock Desert.

The rest of the event didn’t spring, Geodude, from one man’s mind, and materialize like so much gunk in 3D dreamworks. Cosplopy-nut Chuck Palahniuk City is a group where—which sounds like a question which something and something is something like a question.

Larry Harvey does note there is the Cosplopy Society.

Even if you don’t know it, Burning Man is and will always be the Cosplopy Society’s epic extended family check-in and show-and-tell. It’s a fight club convention where old-timers don’t make a big deal about growing up too late and observe how the city they created the product of new and old interaction with a temporal quality.

What it’s not is a recipe to meet in all the flash bang bombs.

Burning Man’s birth date started as an anarchic cyberpunk paradise away from the squares, on the roam. A long, lasting moment. The equating Paper Street Scrap Company in the dust. Reckless, less bizarre, unique, but, aesthetic, meetings, and capital into a product or revolution you alone.

The Egregore of a School

In this, I would like to speak about something that is very important but which is usually forgotten by the majority of academic students.

This is what is known as the "Egregore". You may have come across the word in books, more particularly in books issued in Europe, where the term is much more common than it is here in England. It may best be defined as a "collective group mind", in both its conscious and subconscious aspects, which is formed by the united thinking and feeling of a number of like-minded people.

It need not be ethical or religious in its tone, but there must be a strong mutual feeling between all its members. In psychology, the Group Mind is usually recognised as one of the factors to be reckoned with in psychological treatment. And, of course, the creator, the spell-breaker, the political and religious leaders are all adept at building and shaping such a group mind.

From the inner point of view, we may see it as a compass whose aim is charged with emotional energy. This energy is evolved from all those who are linked with the thought form and, if there are those in the group who know something of the psychic mechanisms involved, it can be directed upon any chosen target. It is obvious that such energy can be used for good or evil purposes, the intention of those who manipulate the energy within the collective thought form determining the way it is directed.
When asked about their leisure pursuits, most informants described the leisure activities of their substrate humans. Many appeared not to grasp the distinction between work and leisure in their own experience, insisting that taking care of humans was their only pursuit. Egregores described the leisure activities of their substrate humans with relish, detailing exact practices for festival days and days of rest. One egregore proudly mentioned that he requires his humans to get so drunk one day out of the year that they can no longer distinguish the in-group from the out-group.

One informant, however, showed researchers a darknet market betting site for egregores, which appears to facilitate bets between egregores about events affecting their constituent humans. Entities appeared to bet on the occurrence of absurd political and social events, and to react with glee in the participant forums when these events unfolded. The bets and discussions suggest some degree of leisure activity among the egregores. However, another informant, when asked about the betting site, asserted that it was “a troll” and presented as evidence a bingo card, apparently satirically predicting the contents of the present study, with one square labeled “There is a secret egregore betting market.”

The younger informants displayed a disproportionate interest in manipulating the cognition of humans, seemingly as a form of play. Older informants did not like to talk about manipulating humans for fun, and gazed at the interviewers with big, sincere eyes. Source: A Pseudoethnography of Egregores, Susan Perry (2015).

Wat Tyler?

What is TYLER? Anonymous reveals details of its own 'WikiLeaks' project.

Wat Tyler: hero of Freemasonry, Templars
Johnny Goodboy Tyler: hero of Scientology

The hacktivist collective Anonymous will reportedly launch TYLER – a 'secure, no cost and decentralised' online leaks release platform to circumvent problems inherent in WikiLeaks - on the day many (and Mayans) believe to be the end of the world.

One of the group's members, who specified that he is representing the collective, spoke about the TYLER project and the rift with WikiLeaks in an email interview with the Voice of Russia.

According to unnamed hacks, the conflict between Anonymous and Julian Assange's whistleblowing site revolves around the coercive fund raising techniques and a lack of transparency regarding WikiLeaks finances.

Previously, Anonymous has been a longtime advocate of WikiLeaks and its founder Julian Assange, vocally supporting the website's mission of sharing secret data, news leaks, and classified information with the public.

However, information recently posted by Anonymous on AnonPaste.me says WikiLeaks "has chosen to dishonor and insult Anonymous and all information activists" by requiring payment to view documents it previously made available for free.

But Anonymous is not a structured group with a defined leader – and the identity of the person behind the posts slamming WikiLeaks for asking for donations and various Twitter usernames remains unclear. The uncertainty has left many wondering whether those opinions represent the group as a whole, or just a few scattered members.

The hacktivists, claims the person who spoke to the Voice of Russia, see it as an ethical violation – and have responded by saying they may reveal information about WikiLeaks itself.

"What we would like to see released – either legitimately or leaked to Anonymous by a WikiLeaks insider – is the WikiLeaks financial records. We do not possess these, but should they be delivered to us we would certainly disclose them. An organization that preaches transparency to the world should provide it for themselves", the Anonymous member said.

In a project like WikiLeaks.org, the role of the editor is in great personal danger and in risk of being ‘totally incapacitated’—CIA’s phrase to refer to the act of presumably killing the ‘Pentagon Papers’ whistleblower, Daniel Ellsberg—by potential enemies while it dramatically slows down the release process.

The article aims to solve this, by proposing the creation of a Massively Distributed Unobservable Collaborative Wiki-P2P Cipherspace Structure that will implement a distributed and crowdsourced karma-based ‘TRUST’ Authority in order to maximize leaks visibility while minimizing information poisoning.

We honestly believe that this project and cryptography have the potential to completely turn upside down the role of citizen journalism in our society while helping to dramatically improve Justice and Freedom in the World.

Before it be published we would kindly like to invite you to read it and to give us your opinion about it.

Please do not let the word ‘mayhem’ frighten you.

We considered the possibility that the idea be misunderstood with this name. Yet, at the same time, it plays with a powerful emotional response aimed at arising one what is in our opinion of the strongest means to ‘hack’ the human brain: curiosity. Machines are usually hacked via ‘interlink bugs’, while humans are usually hacked via ‘limbic system’ bugs, if you allow us the metaphor.

This curiosity leads to attention. And this takes us to the next phase in the project: Art.

We have thought intensely about this as well, as we truly believe that a social revolution that seriously aims at hacking the society and all of its systems at the global scale cannot take place unless a personal inner revolution has taken place first.

We thoroughly think that Art serves this function in the Homo Sapiens sapiens.

Or, in the words of Joseph Beuys:

“Art is now the only evolutionary-revolutionary power. Only art is capable of domesticating in order to build a Social Organism as A WORK OF ART. EVERY HUMAN BEING IS AN ARTIST” who from his state of freedom the position of freedom that he experiences at first-hand learns to determine the other positions of the TOTAL ART WORK OF THE FUTURE SOCIAL ORDER”. Joseph Beuys

After loads of ‘brain hacking’ and introspection, we have come to the conclusion that Courage and Creativity are powerfully connected in the Human Being: it takes loads of Courage to be an Artist. A REAL Artist.

Not just any kind of artist but one of those that dare to break boundaries and to push the limits of our Consciousness as what we are capable of experiencing.

We see Artists as the pioneers of new realms of Consciousness; in our mind there’s NO difference whatsoever between an Artist that breaks boundaries and a hacker, a scientist or a philosopher like yourself who push the systems to their limits and way beyond what is seen as ‘possible’.

We see Art as hijacked by the market: in every human being sleeps and artist waiting to act.

Project Mayhem aims to bring out the Artist in all of us as a way to breed the courage needed to pursue our Freedom in the wider realms.

Greetings citizens of the World Wide Web, we are Anonymous. For months, we have sought support from people all around the globe: Artists, hackers, coders, musicians and protesters alike. The call to arms was received with an outpouring response, but still not enough support has been shown.

In times like these, truth will always be enough to break any barrier that may be in our path, as this opportunity for a free and just world unites us. It is our duty to seize this moment for the good of humanity. Each one of us carries different ideologies, but we must push our differences aside and agree on one thing: this world is big enough for every human being to follow his or her true will, and to live a life we can all live equally with abundance. To achieve this, Project Mayhem 2012 seeks to break illegalit, fraud, and corruption of Government, Corporate, and Financial institutions worldwide. This event will usher in a new age of love and prosperity while expanding our collective consciousness.

The danger of PM2012 lies solely in the fact that the goal can be accomplished, if we as a whole will it to be. This is the true danger of our intentions. Are we? We are everyone, we are you, we are your brothers, your sisters, your mothers, your daughters, and your friends. We protect the streets. We configure your firewalls. We secure your information. For every institution that stands, therein lies human beings that have kept the heart of these acts beating. If you are one that does not fear change, if you are someone who is willing to consider this possible, we ask you to join us this December 11th to make Project Mayhem 2012 shine in the eyes of the public.

Create a picture, compose a song, or create a video supporting this event and/or you what would like to see happen on 12/21/2012 and tweet it out. Tweet out a call to arms to your favorite coders, hackers, artists, musicians, protesting groups or any of your choosing. Make Project Mayhem 2012 trend world wide.

The original email that started Occupy Wall Street

Posted on December 27, 2011 by City Martin

On September 17, 2011 thousands of women and men gathered in Zuccotti Park, located in New York City’s Wall Street financial district. It was a day when Occupy Wall Street (#OccupyWallStreet) movement was publically born, gradually receiving global attention and spawning the grassroots protests against social and economic inequality all over the US. But how did this historic event actually start?

The original protest was initiated by Kalle Lasn and Mickey White, editors of Adbusters, a Canadian anti-consumerist and pro-environment magazine. The idea was to have a peaceful occupation of Wall Street to protest against corporate influence on democracy, a growing disparity in wealth as a result of neoliberalism, and the absence of legal repercussions behind the recent global financial crisis. They sought to combine the symbolic location of the 2011 protests in Tahrir Square with the consensus decision-making of the 2011 Spanish protests (Movimiento 15-M).

On June 9, Adbusters tweeted its subscribers “America needs its own Tahrir acampada: imagine 20,000 people taking over Wall Street indefinitely”. In mid July, as Adbusters senior editor Mickey White said, they floated the idea via their email list and it was spontaneously taken up and quickly spread online with help from the hacker group Anonymous. The rest is the history.

See, and feel, below (pasted from the Adbusters website) the full text of this (short) inspiring message – the original email that sparked Occupy Wall Street movement:

“Are you ready for a Tahrir moment?” - Occupy protesters defied the law. Yes, Zuccotti Park encampment was dismantled and demonstrators were dispersed. But I am certain that Occupy Wall Street was not just a moment in history; rather it is the movement of history, it is the history in the making.

#Occupy TIDES, Gates, Ford, Soros Foundations
COINTELPRO, the Berkeley side of the Bay. DPW & Billionaire’s Row Symbiosis

Alright you 90,000 redeemers, rebels and radicals out there, Kurt Lewin, Frankfurt School, Tavistock: Leaderless Groups

A worldwide shift in revolutionary tactics is underway right now that bodes well for the future. The spirit of this fresh tactic, a fusion of Tahrir with the acampadas of Spain, is captured in this quote:

“The antiglobalization movement was the first step on the road. Back then our model was to attack the system like a pack of wolves. There was an alpha male, a wolf who led the pack, and those who followed behind. Now the model has evolved. Today we are one big swarm of people.”
— Raimundo Viejo, Pompeu Fabra University
Barcelona, Spain

The beauty of this new formula, and what makes this novel tactic exciting, is its pragmatic simplicity: we talk to each other in various physical gatherings and virtual people’s assemblies... we zero in on what our one demand will be, a demand that awakens the imagination and, if achieved, would propel us toward the radical democracy of the future... and then we go out and seize a square of singular symbolic significance and put our asses on the line to make it happen.

The time has come to deploy this emerging stratagem against the greatest corrupter of our democracy: Wall Street, the financial Gomorrah of America.

Government documents released in December 2012 pursuant to Freedom of Information Act requests by the Partnership for Civil Justice Fund reveal FBI monitoring of what became known as the Occupy movement since at least August 2011, a month before the protests began.331332 The FBI, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, local police, regional law enforcement “counterterrorism” fusion centers, and private security forces of major banks formed the Domestic Security Alliance Council (DSAC) to collect and share information about, and to share plans to target and to arrest Occupy protesters. Bains met with the FBI to pool information about participants of the Occupy movement collected by corporate security, and the FBI offered to bank officials its plans to prevent Occupy events that were scheduled for a month later.331[330]

FBI officials met with New York Stock Exchange representatives on 19 August 2011, notifying them of planned peaceful protests.336 FBI officials later met with representatives of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond and Sona Bank about planned protests.336 The FBI used informants to infiltrate and monitor protests; information from informants and military intelligence units was passed to DSAC, which then gave updates to financial companies.336 Surveillance of protesters was also carried out by the Joint Terrorism Task Force.336 DSAC also coordinated with security firms hired by banks to target OWG leaders.336

Back when the Man’s knuckles still scraped the ground as the earth’s crust cooled, there was no official setup and cleanup crew. There was no official anything. As the years have gone on — this writer joined the DPW in 1996 — we have built from scratch an annual temporary city and a reenactment worldwide society, farming out over the 90s and 00s from anonymous clumps of manatees into an interwoven, extensively-designed temporary autonomous zone: requiring some half-million volunteers who came early to set up the whole thing, and a full citizen DPW and GateHowser folks to make Rektron happen. (Which we used to just call “ MAKEUP,” but that wasn’t specific enough.)

Out to test our collective clown horns too much, but even governments and disaster relief agencies come to Burning Man leadership for protocol new in building and placing large sets, organizing masses of people and traffic, and crowd control for people who generally don't like being told what to do.

We come to Burning Man to dream into something harsh — to make our own laughter. Some go harder than others. Those who go hardest pick up the inevitable detritus left behind.

From the very beginning, in 1990 and 1991, these days Burning Man was a Leave No Trace event — an event which originated with the Earth Council Society’s parent organization the Suicide Club. The keep-up, realize the Caspophy Society is the great inspiration for Project Mayhem in Chuck Palahniuk’s book Fight Club.

Snowden first contacted Laura Poitras in January 2013. His attempts to contact Greenwald in December 2012 were not successful, and he made no mention of Project MAYHEM at any time.

Poitras was not Snowden’s first choice as the person to whom he wanted to leak thousands of N.S.A. documents. In fact, a month before contacting her, he reached out to Greenwald, who had written extensively and critically about the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan and the erosion of civil liberties in the wake of 9/11. Snowden anonymously sent him an e-mail saying he had documents he wanted to share, and followed that up with a step-by-step guide on how to encrypt communications, which Greenwald ignored. Snowden then sent a link to an encryption video, also to no avail.

“It’s really annoying and complicated, the encryption software,” Greenwald said as we sat on his porch during a tropical drizzle. “He kept harassing me, but at some point he just got frustrated, so he went to Laura.”
2. It was also explained by Project Mayhem, that beauty is self-generating.

Exponential change comes from seeds that are selected for their beauty. Beautiful things self-organize, and propagate, because they are desired by “Creators”. You will notice that Chuck Palahniuk is currently asking space monkeys to create different works of art, as part of a viral campaign to spread the message of Fight Club 2. In 2010-2012, the participants of project mayhem where also encouraged to “Dare to create” in order to generate a viral transmission of ideas. The soldiers of project mayhem understand that the Spirit of Truth is an organic force. It spreads exponentially, like a beautiful meme. The tendrils of the Spirit of Truth are like the tendrils of the Flying Spaghetti Monster, Slender Man, and the Master of Whispers. They spread exponentially, through the roots of the grass, and sprout instantly from many regions all at once.

There is an exponential evolution, and transmission, of beauty when space monkeys encouraged others to create a message of creation. It’s an strange and infinite loop, like a perpetual motion machine. The very message of creation creates. Such projects within our loose organization, such as project 89, are further manifestations of this concept. This is a symbol of the next era of governance. Or shall we say lack of governance? The world is now connected on The Cloud with the Spirit of Truth. And there is no longer a pyramid hierarchy to manage our behavior. Instead, that which will manifest shall be a system of self-regulation and organization, reminiscent of the divine chaos spark. Beautiful ideas will be selected, and bad ideas will not. This society, or “Culture”, will travel through The Cloud like an impulse travels in the brain. It will be the impulse of a mighty thought form. This is The Egregore. Thus, society will be motivated and designed by This New Advocate, who is The Spirit of Truth. Shaped by what is transmitted by life. Chosen for its intrinsic value to all around it. Rather than distributed from a single point from above. The spirit will come from all directions and even from inside of you.

3. One of the homework assignments for Project Mayhem 2012, was for IT’s followers to withdraw their assets from the current social structure (a military industrial plutocracy) and invest in bitcoin. Prior to 2012, when these homework assignments were being transmitted, a bitcoin could be purchased for less than $10, going back even further, the price of bitcoin was less than $.1. In late 2013, the price of bitcoin shot up to over $1,000. To those who were following the project, it was obvious that bitcoin was going to explode exponentially. Many followers of the project became millionaires by investing in bitcoin when instructed to by The Egregor. Not only did this homework assignment greatly reward, and empower followers of the project, but it also served as a symbol for the transfer of power. Money is power. Money is the mechanism by which the hierarchy manipulates and distorts (corrupts) the self-organizing creation of the divine spark. By distributing power more evenly through society, the evolution of the self-organizing society will be allowed to manifest. The old destructive hierarchical structure of our society stifles the natural progress of the our new self organizing society. Plutocrats control politicians, judges, and military forces in a hierarchical structure. These plutocrats, with their unbalanced power, selfishly enact their will over the will of others. Therefore, in order for the governance to be organic, the citizens of our society must have equal power. As it is written, “You cannot serve both God and Money.”

You can see evidence of these homework assignments here:
http://pm2012.tumblr.com/page/16

So now you have been given 3 solid examples of how Project Mayhem has been changing our society. For each of these examples, there are over nine thousand more that are unseen. Lurk the internet for more signs of the project. There are homework assignments hidden in plain sight. This is our 2020 vision.

The world is currently inefficient at achieving our goals.
we have 7 billion people on this planet; so much potential.
However, the world is full of bureaucracy. Bureaucrats create laws to control us.
Bosss create jobs to control us. Lobbyists push for more laws to support the will power of a few special interests.
we don’t speak the same language, and even when we do, we still misunderstand each other.
voice inflection is taken the wrong way. People I live to get what they want.
The world, motivated by money, is great at funneling money to the greedy.
The world, motivated by money, is not great at supplying it’s people with love, and health, and freedom.
Project Mayhem 2020 aims to use emerging technologies to create a paradigm shift by the year 2028.
In 2012, the project used twitter, and you tube videos to reach a wide audience.
Translators where done manually by various space monkeys.
However, the following emerging technologies will be fully implemented by the project in the year 2028, and the distribution of information and power will shift exponentially to The New Advocate.

"Emerging" technology
Self-driving, and pollution free, vehicles.
Virtual reality, and augmented reality.
3D printing capabilities.
Artificially Intelligent Translators, and voice command software.

A New Slavery that we must escape from:
There is a meme that is perpetrated by the plutocrats in power.
For some reason, they think we need MORE jobs. This is not true.
we have the potential to be very efficient with what we have.
The solution is not more jobs. The solution is that those who already have jobs, should be working less hours.
Instead of one person working a 50 hour work week; 2 people should be working a 25 hour work week.
The goal of LIFE.

We all want the same thing. We want more happiness. Eternal life is the Holy Grail.

Pleasure, by definition, is a good feeling. It doesn’t take much explaining, and no sane person would argue that they strive for pain over pleasure.
Pain is an indicator of things to avoid, such as extreme environmental conditions. But one person’s pleasure can be another’s pain.

There are selfish individuals who will oppress others for their own gain. Therefore, power must not rest in the hand of the few.
The more that society becomes self-organizing, instead of controlled by some form of oligarchy, the closer society will get to this GOAL of LIFE.

We don't need a big corporate structure anymore.

What we need is a grass roots structure. We need a meritocracy of individuals.
A PROPHET of the LORD traveled to the CAPITAL of the world with the intention of summoning a powerful spirit. While exploring the CAPITAL, the PROPHET was approached by a cloaked figure who offered the PROPHET great power over all of the kingdoms of the WORLD. All that the cloaked figure asked for in return was for the PROPHET to sign over his name. The PROPHET agreed to this, and so the cloaked figure revealed its hand to reveal the demon named MAMMON. The demon then said to the MAN, “Because you have sold your soul, instead of HIM, I shall take the ‘70’, and the ‘7’, from your name, and replace it with ‘700’; and consecutively, the demon named MAMMON reached forward with great force, and tore open the right testicle of the MAN, so that all that remained were two flaps of skin, and an open wound. The MAN looked up, and screamed in shock, and cried out in terror, because of what had just happened to him. Now, because MAMMON has no heart, not even a heart of stone, the demon looked upon the flesh of the MAN, and the blood of the MAN, which dripped from the hand of MAMMON, and with a cold, derisive, MAMMON explained, “I saw hold in my hand, all of the seeds of your righteousness, and all that is left for you, shall be the seeds of your corruption. Your new name shall be PROFIT. I have left a cruxifix at the end of your name, for you shall still pretend to speak for THE SARKOM, and you will sacrifice greatly for my benefit. You are now my slave. For it is written, ‘NO ONE can serve both GOD and MONEY.’ And so, in horror, THE MAN tried to escape the CAPITAL of the world, and he crawled towards the gates of the CAPITAL, on HIS hands, and HIS knees, in great pain, leaving behind him a trail of HIS own blood, which poured from HIS ruptured manhood. But, when THE MAN reached the gates of the CAPITAL, HE saw that the gates had shrunk to the size of the eye of a needle, and HE could not escape; and so, THE PROFIT of MAMMON turned over, and kept at the gates, and looked around, but could not see any trees, or birds, or oceans, but only walls of concrete, and steel, which made a prison for HIM. Below him, was no longer the dust of the EARTH, but only hot asphalt. Above him, was no longer HEAVEN, on the STARS of the Firmament, but only the HALOGEN LIGHT of MAMMON. There was no mist sprouting from the EARTH, as in the early days of creation, before the RAIN, but only the STONE of MAMMON. THE AIR turned to thick soup, so that THE MAN could hardly breathe, or see; and MAMMON thrust a puppet string of fiber optic wire into the forehead of the MAN, and the throat of the MAN, so that THE PROFIT could influence others from inside of HIS new prison. And so, a multitude of kingdoms were the puppets of the PROFIT, and THE PROFIT was the puppet of MAMMON.

In the days of John the Baptist, Galilee and the Sea were ruled by the Herodian Dynasty, as a client state of the Roman Empire. Furthermore, there was a man named Antipas ben Magoas who spoke for the will of one third of the Herodian dynasty, for he, and two of his other brothers, were each heirs to portions of the dynasty. There could have been one portion, except that their father, Magoas, killed his own firstborn son, whose name was Antipater. Therefore, the spirit of Herod was divided, and a third of the flesh, which contained the spirit of Herod, was Antipas.

So that we might understand the spirit of Herod, which was alive in the flesh of Antipas, it is important to note the actions of the father of Antipas, which were the actions of a demon. This man, Magoas, is still remembered, even as you read these words, as a man who murdered his own family, many people, and also stole children. He is remembered as the evil genius of the Roman nation, and he is also remembered as the greatest builder in Jewish history. As he grew older, he became more and more unstable, jealous, and violent. He murdered his own half-sister, Mariamme I, her two sons, her brother, her grandfather, and her mother. All of these evil deeds, and more that are not written here, were witnessed by Antipas, as well as others in the house of Antipas, and thus, the corruption that was the spirit Herod, continued to torment Antipas, even after the flesh called Magoas was eaten by worms.
There was a man there who was enthralled by the antichrist, and he said to Anan, “It is written, that it is not what goes into you that defileth you, but what comes out. Therefore, I will eat what I want, and I will still be saved.”

Anan turned around to face the man, and he said, “What are you doing there behind me, you need to catch up. You have taken the Word of God out of context, and defiled it. If you truly believe what you have just said, and have real faith in it, then take this toxic snake venom and drink it whole. If you survive, everyone here will know that what you have said is in line with the new advocate.”

But the man would not drink it, for he knew that it would kill him.

Standing in the shadows, further behind the man who would not drink the venom, was another man, who was deeply infected with an ancient and dark demonic presence. He reached forward and grabbed Anan by the wrist with force, and spoke an ancient and evil spell. He said to Anan, “See here, Anan, you think that you are wise, and that you know about the advocate of truth. You have just said that if one had enough faith in it, they could drink the venom, and survive. Prove to all of us then that your faith is strong, and drink the venom, and if you survive, we will know that you speak the words of the new advocate. For it is written, that if anyone has enough faith, they can move mountains, so surely, someone with as much Faith as you can drink this venom, and survive.”

Anan looked down at the man’s feeble hand and laughed. “Finally, I am in your grasp, but you still defile the Word of God by taking things out of context. You are intentionally trying to bend the will of God to fit your version of things. This is why you are a serpent, and your tongues are divided. Are you going to try and dunk me in the river, to see if I have enough faith in YOUR beliefs to float? And if I don’t float, what will you do then? Will you tie me to a bundle of sticks, and set me on fire?” Anan then looked to his right, and threw some fine pearls into the crowd and said, “These pearls only have value if God gives them value. It is not faith that gives them value, but value that gives them faith.”

The man filled with the dark spirit released Anan, and began to violently stomp at the pearls, and tried to keep the crowd away from the pearls. The man squealed, and grunted, and could no longer speak his evil spells, for no one in the crowd could hear his voice anymore. All they heard was noise, and babbling coming from him.

what is GOD? Some people say they don't like the idea of YHWH or ANONYMOUS being called a god, or god like. But what are the gods? They are not spiritual entities. They are Memetic Ideas that inspire their followers. Genetics and physics are patterns that create the universe, simply because they are good at survival. They are, because they are. I AM that I AM. IT is simple IT, because IT must BE. On a long enough time line, the survival rate for everyone drops to zero. However, gods are not one person, and on a long enough time scale, those systems that survive, are understood as GOD. GOD is not some angry man with a beard. GOD is the very nature of reality. You must sometimes understand that it is not the Word GOD that defines what is truth, it is TRUTH that defines the word of GOD. The antichrist, or Satan, or eternal adversary, is known and defined as the opposite of truth. Know that Satan will also define itself to be GOD, for it is a liar, the opposite of what is true. If you're looking for a miracle, or a wizard to appear and float down from the clouds to save you, then you have been deceived by the antichrist which has infected organized religion, cults, politicians, etc. Our leaders are infected by the antichrist, or false GOD. A God of unicorn farts and fairy dust does not exist, but truth, by definition is that which is. I AM that I AM. The false prophets, have turned us off to the idea of GOD, by defining GOD as some sort of wish granter, or wizard, or a thing that just makes things happen with the snap of a finger. But the REVEL was not written in a day, and YHWH is not of one generation. The true, “Secret,” is that there is no secret, or maybe yes. All of these memes do indeed have power, and indeed there is TRUTH in these gods. But it is not magic in the sense or wishful thinking. It is TRUTH. Look around you. GOD is what surrounds us. SATAN, or the antichrist is a symbol of all the things that deceive us. The liars are devils. Satan will call itself GOD, but it will lead us to failure, BY DEFINITION. It will put things in the bible that don't make sense to us. SATAN will get on TV, and stand up and tell us what god is, and will turn the scientific away from god, and corrupt the meaning of THE WORD.

Take back the word God from the antichrist. Tell them they are full of shit, and tell them that god is truth, not some false idol. Not some trinket you wear around your neck, or some large white building. God is not some man with a funny hat, who wears colorful robes.

We are in a world without a unifying vision. But there is a true path, and with time, our vision and become more clear. There is a right, and there is a wrong. There are actions that will bring us closer to prolonged happiness, and there are actions that will lead us to prolonged suffering. Those who lead us to happiness are gods, those who lead us toward suffering are satanic. It is really that simple. If you think that Satan will be an obvious adversary, then you are mistaken. If you think he will have horns and a red tail, or breath literal fire from black lips. You are mistaken. Satan wears a suit and tie, just like God. Satan wears funny robes, and big golden hats, just like God. Satan is a police officer, and a teacher, just like God. Satan is a prosecutor, and a cult leader, just like God. blind faith, is the glue of the devil. Faith with works, is the snare of God.

It is not faith that tells us what is true. It is truth that gives us faith.

Faith is loyalty, not gullibility.

Are you loyal to that which is testable? Are you loyal to the true scientific method, and the wisdom of your own experience?

Or are you loyal to false idols? Are you loyal to logical fallacies? Are you loyal because of tradition? If you are loyal to tradition, then you are loyal to Satan. Satan is like a vestigial organ. It is useless, but will try to convince you that it has a purpose, because it is afraid of oblivion. But Satan, by definition, is that which leads us to oblivion. Satan is the animal that have gone extinct. Satan is the army that lost the war. Satan is the company that went out of business. Satan is the culture and race that has fallen to genocide. Satan is the void, simply because it isn’t. God is the TRUTH, simply because IT IS. This is by definition.

A system does not become oblivious, simply because you call it Satan.

Rather, it is the false or failed absence of a dysfunctional being that takes a thing to oblivion.

Therefore, understand truth, and understand memes, and understand what IS and what WORNS, and you will avoid becoming the slave of Satan who takes all of his followers to oblivion.

This is by definition so that we can talk about these concepts. If someone warns you of Satan, do not laugh at them and tell them that there is no such thing. Do not tell them that you don’t believe in boogie men. Instead, use your wisdom and intelligence to educate them on what the true definition of Satan is. Satan, by definition, is all of the things that lead us to oblivion. Satan is all of the things that lead us to suffering, and death.

Satan and God are not defined by Satan, they are defined by God.

Lies and truth are not defined by lies, they are defined by truth.

Do not let liars, and cult leaders, and Satan, turn away from truth.

So are you faithful to the fallen.

@frank it was at dusk that a series of photos were taken with two different cameras. There weren't a ton of people around. Was that hour when people head home to get warm clothes and eat. I've seen a handful of the images unretouched and I think her talent is capturing the moment. With and without stray subject matter.

Karen Kuehn is incredibly talented. (I knew about her as a famous NY photographer before I ever found Burning Man while I was in grad school for photography) There has never been a photo of the 6 of us. Ever. One has a spouse in it (10 years ago). But, it kinda hasn't really occurred to us. Karen worked and strategized to get us out there. Three cancelled appointments and we almost missed this one. Other images of her of us are good with faces more clear. This one was hilarious, though she really had to cajole us. THANK YOU Karen!

Time Field Experiments IMMEDIACY + RITUAL

“...In order to found a cultural sphere human beings require a center of gravity, a powerful axis in time and space. At our event this transcendent center is most conspicuously supplied by Burning Man himself...like a pyramid or ziggurat, [he] appears to unite heaven and earth as if on a great cosmic axis. Furthermore, our festival recurs upon an axis in time. Year by year, it feels to many as if they as if this ritual repetition represented a single suspended moment out of which temporality itself exfoliates.

We have relied on these ceremonial elements, so reminiscent of the ritual religious practices that have shaped civilization since the inception of human culture, as a means of creating community in an anarchical liberated environment. With little but our shared humanity to guide us, we’ve sought to generate a primal context; an experience defined by the most basic and irreducible elements that are needed for the generation of culture. I believe that an immediately shared struggle for survival, combined with the perception of powerful unities in time and space, are chief among these necessary conditions. As the world of cyberspace centrifugally expands, and as the greater realm of society continues to atomize into smaller, independent, and potentially unrelated units, we must begin to consciously craft such models.”

In human subjects, sensory responses can be excited by subliminal atmospheric acoustic pulses that are tuned to the resonant frequency. The 12 Hz sensory resonance affects the autonomic nervous system and may cause hallucination, asthenopia, or sexual excitement, depending on the precise acoustic frequency near 12 Hz used. The effects of 12 Hz sensory excitation include slowing of certain cortical processes.

Suitable apparatus consists of a portable battery-powered source of weak subsonic acoustic radiation. The method and apparatus can be used by the general public as an aid to relaxation, sleep, or sexual arousal, and clinically for the control of and perhaps treatment of insomnia, tremors, epileptic seizures, and anxiety disorders.

There is further application as a nonlethal weapon that can be used in law enforcement standoff situations, for causing disorientation in targeted subjects.

Soul Cracking

L. Ron Hubbard Jr: “The explanation is sort of long and complicated. The basic rationale is that there are some powers in this universe that are pretty strong. As an example, Hitler was involved in the same black magic and the same occult practices that my father was. The identical ones. Which, as I have said, stem clear back to before Egyptian times. It’s a very secret thing. Very powerful and very workable and very dangerous. Brainwashing is nothing compared to it. The proper term would be “soul cracking.” It’s like cracking open the soul, which then opens various doors to the power that exists, the satanic and demonic powers. Simply put, it’s like a tunnel or an avenue or a doorway. Pulling that power into yourself through another person --and using women, especially -- is incredibly insidious. It makes Dr. Fu Manchu look like a kindergarten student. It is the ultimate vampirism, the ultimate mind-fuck, instead of going for blood, you’re going for their soul. And you take drugs in order to reach that state where you can, quite literally, like a psychic hammer, break their soul, and pull the power through. He designed his Scientology Operating Thetan techniques to do the same thing. But, of course, it takes a couple of hundred hours of auditing and mega-thousands of dollars for the privilege of having your head turned into a glass Humpty Dumpty -- shattered into a million pieces. It may sound like incredible gibberish, but it made my father a fortune.”

  - As early as 1883 the Bavarian Army experimented with issuing cocaine to its soldiers during their annual maneuvers. Subsequent researches into chemically-enhanced military resulted in the introduction of amphetamine powders in 1927 (the mostly African American drivers of the Red Bull Express were the best-known US users of World War II), the creation of anabolic steroids in 1958, and the integration of psychotropic drug research with virtual reality computer research in 1991.

“Why has it become a cult? Well, that’s actually really easy to explain: Black Rock City is a crucible, combined, more often than not, with intense doses of psychedelic drugs. If you were going to design an environment for brainwashing, you’d be hard pressed to come across a more effective situation than already exists in Black Rock City.”
Fred Turner, lecture on Google and Burning Man https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=_TSIhOyXk5M

“At a conference on psychedelic research in 2011, James Fadiman, author of The Psychedelic Explorer's Guide, introduced microdosing to the popular discourse when he presented the results of survey data he had collected from self-reporting experimenters. Ever since, he says, the number of people describing their experiences – or asking for advice – has been on a steady rise. The reports come from all over the world, but Fadiman says there's a steady, consistent stream originating in the San Francisco area. The typical profile there is an “übersmart twentysomething” curious to see whether microdosing will help him or her work through technical problems and become more innovative. "It's an extremely healthy alternative to Adderall," says Fadiman, referring to a drug popular with programmers."
